Patrons who want to use unpublished material from the special collections of the University of Georgia Law Library:

• must make arrangements in advance with the Special Collections Librarian
• the deeds of gift for some collections require permission of the donor before the collection may be made available.
• may not remove material from the Law Library
• must accept responsibility for all costs of copying, including labor costs if the patron is not a University of Georgia employee
• must reimburse the Law Library for any loss or damage to the materials that results from use
• must provide full citation of the source and acknowledgment of the University of Georgia Alexander Campbell King Law Library if the research results in publication
• must adhere to the terms of copyright law and obtain all necessary copyright permissions
• assume responsibility for any infringement of copyright that results from use of the materials

The University of Georgia assumes no liability for infringement of copyright that may occur as a result of the use of its special collections.
